Prayer . . .

to St. Thomas

O God, Who desirest that all men should come to the knowledge of the truth,

And to this end didst enlighten the world with the wonderful learning of St. Thomas Aquinas,

Mercifully grant, that this Institute dedicated to his name,

May be a seat of wisdom to the young,

A Mother of good counsel to the community,

A blessing to all its benefactors.
And as Thy Eternal Truth didst become flesh and dwell
amongst us,

So may that same truth become action in all Thy students,

That they may think the things that are right,

And under Thy merciful guidance perform the same.

Through Christ Our Lord. Amen.

EDICATION

Early last Autumn, the people of the Diocese of Rochester honored their Bishop as he celebrated a most memorable occasion, the Silver Anniversary of his Episcopal Consecration as a Bishop. At the same time we celebrated another joyous event, his Golden Anniversary as a priest.

Twenty years ago, James E. Kearney was appointed Bishop of Rochester. Immediately after his arrival, he began to spread the word of Christ to his people. He built schools on the elementary, secondary and college levels. Following the command of Christ to teach the word of God to all, our Bishop has accomplished what was once regarded a dream. Through his sacrifice and efforts, Rochester has become an example to the Catholic world.

And so, in sincere appreciation of his work here in Rochester, in gratitude for his sacrifices for his people, and as a tribute to his many accomplishments, we, the students of Aquinas Institute, dedicate our 1958 Arete to James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester.

MOST REVEREND JAMES E. KEARNEY, D.D.
Bishop of Rochester

In the Spring of 1953, His Holiness Pope Pius XII appointed the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence B. Casey Titular Bishop of Cea and Auxiliary to the Bishop of Rochester. This was a fitting honor to be bestowed on a man who has served his Creator so faithfully.

Ordained a priest in June 1930, he was soon appointed Vice-Chancellor. For a number of years he also acted as secretary first to Archbishop Mooney, and later to Bishop Kearney. The title of Right Reverend Monsignor was conferred on him in 1947 when he was raised to the rank of Domestic Prelate. The year 1953 found him rector of Sacred Heart Cathedral. The following year he was consecrated Auxiliary Bishop of the Diocese of Rochester to aid Bishop Kearney in carrying out Christ's command; "Go ye therefore and teach ye all nations."

Since this time, we the people of Rochester have grown to realize the great honor given to us when Bishop Casey was appointed to this position.

Upon entering Aquinas last September the students sensed a strange emptiness about the school. The school was as it had been except for one very outstanding feature. Sister Stella was no longer at Aquinas.

Ever since Aquinas first opened its doors, Sister Stella has been a part of Aquinas. Our fathers remember her for she taught many of them. Sister did everything she could for Aquinas; she never ceased praying for her students. Spirit in Sister Stella's boys was always high as was proven every year when her homeroom gained honors. She never came to a football game or ever saw one of our basketball teams in action. Yet, she did more for them than anyone—she prayed for them. She prayed that they might have good weather and never suffer injuries but never for victory for that was God's choice.

In grateful acknowledgement of all you have meant to Aquinas, we wish to pay tribute to you, Sister M. Stella, R.S.M.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS	p. 11
FACULTY	pp. 12-15

The immediate and fundamental function of the Administration of Aquinas is to frame and execute the essential elements of the Student Body's education. From instructional activities, the student receives the principles that are to guide him in his spiritual, cultural and economic life—principles that are true from eternity, applicable to man in all ages, yet presented in a manner adapted for our age. To this end, the officers and faculty are avowedly dedicated.

THE VERY REVEREND ERNEST P. MAGEE, C.S.B.
Principal

My Dear Seniors:

His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, has said that "Christian education is to cooperate with divine grace in forming the true and perfect Christian . . . For precisely this reason, Christian education takes in the whole aggregate of human life . . . in order to elevate, regulate, and perfect it, in accordance with the example and teaching of Christ." Your yearbook is the record of the four years you have spent here pursuing these goals, spiritual, academic, and athletic. More than a record, however, your Arete is a symbol of your life here for "arete" means that unity of virtue of mind and body to which the complete man of every age must aspire. That has been and must be your goal.

SENIORS

A Senior is a man who has learned that he has only begun to learn. His four years of study have opened to him many avenues of knowledge. He has seen that physical training has a place in the formation of a man. It develops a spirit of teamwork, a calm mind in any crisis, and a never-ending drive. A student's social life assists in maturing him. It teaches him to be comfortable in all situations, when to trifle and when to be serious, when to speak and when to be silent. These roads to maturity have led to the creation of a full man.

One of the most important organizations in any school is the Student Council. It is the Council that plans and guides student activities throughout the year.

Football and basketball excursions have highlighted the activities of the Student Council this year. The Council was outstanding in its participation at the Inter-High Student Meetings. They have filled the Social Calendar of the students with many well-organized dances, one of the most notable being the Crystal Ball. Assemblies have provided the students with a wide variety of entertainment.

It can be truly said that this year's Student Council has done a superb job in directing student activities.

The Catholic education which the Underclassman receives at Aquinas will be reflected when he takes his place in the service of his God and his neighbor. Occasionally, he may have felt that he was exposed to a multiplicity of work—labs, essays, reading assignments—designed to make life difficult for him. But as a hopeful Freshman aiming even higher, a Sophomore beginning to scale the heights, a Junior climbing nearer to the goal, in his Senior year he will appreciate the fruits of his labor when he steps out into life itself.

To a great guy who's want help to thank for his help
 in coming in this luck
 on compaign good luck

Order must prevail over any system. This includes the system of education. Because of this at Aquinas, as at most educational centers, each phase of study is divided into separate departments such as the Language, Science and Mathematics departments.

The heads and teachers of the particular subjects contained in the respective departments meet often to discuss what has to be taught and the best ways of teaching it. By collecting individual ideas from the teachers the most efficient method is determined.

The student also benefits from these divisions. He can be sure that the work is being presented to him in a manner which will be the easiest for him to learn and to understand.

Thus, we say thanks to the various departments, their heads and respective members.

Mr. McGinn and his budding Second Year Theologians pose for a formal portrait.

RELIGION

FR. M. B. BIONDI, C.S.B.
Director

One of the purposes of education is to teach the students to think for themselves. The purposes of a religious education is to teach one to think according to religious principles, to live by them, and thus to attain eternal happiness.

In a student's first year at Aquinas, he is acquainted with the life of Christ and given an explanation of the Creed. Next, he learns something of the history of the Church and receives a clearer view of the Mass and the Sacraments. The third year students are taught a simplified course in moral theology. As a final preparation for life he studies Apologetics—a rational basis of his faith that enables him to explain and defend it.

Thus the religion course at Aquinas builds a firm foundation for the faith which will be a guide throughout life.

An incident in the life of Christ is told by Mr. Gallagher.

A question on the Bible is presented by Fr. Miller to his juniors.

ENGLISH

FR. J. J. ABEND, C.S.B.
Director

The Department of English has for its objectives the development of clear thinking and correct writing as well as the development of a sensitivity to the best in the world's literature.

One learns through literature not only to appreciate the ideas of great writers but also the characteristics of an author's style which differentiates him from other writers. The application of previously learned grammatical rules helps one to develop a theme clearly and logically, for the most forceful presentation of his ideas.

Through English there is developed an ease in expressing oneself intelligibly and to desire to expore the literary master-pieces of mankind.

The combination of beautiful poetry recorded by accomplished artists and Mr. Femiano makes for an enjoyable class.

HISTORY

FR. P. J. ETLINGER, C.S.B.
Director

History is the study by which we learn of man, his success and failure in the past. Since History often repeats itself we can foresee events and learn how to meet them. Man learns to realize the great gifts of God through History, which helps him attain the knowledge and ability to advance through the ages.

In the History course here at Aquinas we are first taught the basic principles of citizenship. We learn these principles through a study of the world and the people living in it—their problems and standards. After learning of our neighbors we study the history of America, the problems which we have faced and how we have overcome them.

As a result, we are taught, to apply the knowledge to present day circumstances so that we may lay a firm foundation for the future history of mankind.

The Audio and the Visual in Fr. Etlinger's American History Class.

Fr. Carter illustrates a point in his Solid Geometry class.

MATHEMATICS

FR. C. P. DONOVAN, C.S.B.
Director

The goal of high school mathematics is two-fold, to develop in the student the ability to think mathematically, and to establish within him the fundamental skills which will enable him to go on to college.

A well-rounded mathematics course, one that will permit the student to grow mathematically in each of his four years, is provided at Aquinas. For those students who wish to go on into higher mathematics such as calculus, a mathematics club has been formed.

Therefore, we see that Aquinas has adequately fulfilled its duty of providing a mathematics program which more than provides for the needs of its students.

SCIENCE

FR. J. M. WILSON, C.S.B.
Director

High School Science is the study of the laws of nature and their application to our everyday lives. The General Science course introduces the student to the various sciences which he may study at Aquinas. Biology is the study of the life functions of plants, animals and human beings. The field of Physics ranges from the study of heat and light to the motion of the universe. Chemistry, on the other hand, is the study of the elements which make up matter.

Through a study of the universe—its laws and its wonders—we are brought to a closer knowledge of God and His Goodness.

Watching to see what will happen next in Fr. Butler's Physics class.

The cameraman distracts the Italian students for a moment.

LANGUAGES

FR. A. P. LOCOCO, C.S.B.
Director

The Language Department at Aquinas aims to achieve a healthy balance between the traditional, grammatical approach to languages and the modern methods which seek to provide the student with reasonable fluency in speaking a language.

Through languages the student is introduced to literary masterpieces of various nations. An artistic sensitivity and a power of critical judgement are developed. A study of the efforts which foreign nations have made toward the solution of the problems of human destiny and the contribution they have made to the embellishment of human existence should enrich the experience of the student. It makes him realize that all men, by their artistic creativity, are images of the one creative God.

Fr. Fullerton relates an interesting incident to his students of Spanish.

Kenneth Weidner recites in Mr. Jordan's class.

Richard Graham is attempting to give a correct answer in Bookkeeping.

BUSINESS

FR. J. A. O'REILLY, C.S.B.
Director

In recent years Business courses have found a prominent position in the high school curriculum.

In them students are equipped with the mechanical skills and moral virtues necessary to enter and to succeed in today's business world. Mathematical skills and ability to approach and to converse with people are coupled with a sense of understanding of human needs and desires.

Through Business courses many people have found their place in the world.

James Kraus and friends find a quiet spot in the Library for study.

A study in concentration.

LIBRARY

FR. J. R. WHITLEY, C.S.B.
Librarian

The library is a vital part of the Aquinas educational program. It attempts not only to implement and extend class instruction by stimulating study and research, but also to supply such recreational reading material as will foster a love for good books and cultural reading generally.

The seniors are given a principle in health by Mr. Basile.

HEALTH

MR. LOUIS BASILE
Director

As well as developing our minds, we have the duty of developing and strengthening our bodies and of keeping them in good health. To enjoy good health one must become mentally, physically and socially well adjusted to life. Through our daily studies we advance both mentally and socially, but it is the job of the Health Department to furnish a guide for physical development.

The study of Art is the inalienable concern of man and is as much a part of his education as any of the marks that are advanced as evidence of education in general. The variety of courses offered at Aquinas is regulated by the needs of the students; in addition to the general course designed for all, there are more profound and exacting courses for those who wish to cultivate the virtue of Art more seriously.

CLUBS

Through the different academic subjects at school, a student obtains knowledge and ability. By participating in the different clubs the student discovers how to apply this knowledge in order that it might be both beneficial and enjoyable to him.

Here at Aquinas there are clubs from which all boys can benefit. At their respective meetings, the student members are able to look deeper into a subject which was simply explained in class. Through these clubs, students are able, by applying their knowledge, to show some of their own creative ideals.

To have knowledge without being able to put it to use is worthless. Thus through our clubs, an interested student is presented with an opportunity to develop his ability and share his knowledge with others.

SODALITY

At Aquinas, the Sodality represents the spiritual part of the student's learning. The Sodalist dedicates himself to the Blessed Virgin Mary, promising to do his best to spread devotion to her. Being a member is not only a great privilege but also a great source of merit to him. Here he leads a life with Mary.

The activities of a Sodalist are many. Following the corporal works of mercy, he collects canned food for the poor and needy. A true Sodalist recites the rosary daily, and attends the sacraments frequently. In this he is fulfilling his duties by spreading good example and gaining for himself and for others spiritual rewards.

Yes, the job of a Sodalist is a full-time one, but he endures it willing knowing that he is attaining the only really important thing in life.

MISSIONS

The outstanding spirit of the Aquinas Student for the Missions is proven each year by the overwhelming support which they give the Missions spiritually and financially.

This year a new spiritual activity was initiated. Each homeroom was given the name of a missionary for whom it would offer its prayers that his work in the Mission field be successful. Also, the daily Mission Mass was extended to continue throughout the entire school year.

These activities along with our remarkable financial support, through homeroom contributions and the annual Mission Bouts, have given us a position in the Missions to be envied by all.

THE 1958

EDITORS

Very few students of Aquinas learn so much in so short a time as do those who work on the yearbook. This year the entire staff was green. Such technical terms as bleed, crop, and dummy double page spread are new to them. But not for long!!! Once the staff and editor are chosen and a theme picked, the wheels are set in motion and from then till the first week in March it is one long grind.

A busy staff learns quickly, however, and despite several upsetting interruptions, such as the Asia flu and the big snow storm, the glorious day finally arrived when all was complete. From then on the staff waited for the verdict of their fellow students.

Acting in the dual role of unbiased reporter and chronicle of Aquinas achievements, the Maroon and White is an important organization at Aquinas. Through its reporting of school events in both a serious and humorous vein, the M and W offers its members the opportunity for the expression of original thought and the development of journalistic technique.

The newspaper's staffs, news, sports, features, circulation and photograph appeal to different types and develop particular talents. Fr. F. C. Boehm and Joseph Scholand as well as the members of the staff deserve the recognition and tribute of all students at Aquinas for their unselfish labors in providing us with news of the school.

ORATORICALS

A man who can express himself logically, and convey his thoughts clearly, gains the respect of all. The Annual Oratoricals aid in developing this ability in our students.

This program provides an opportunity for all students who wish to participate. Through eliminations in the individual English classes, the outstanding orators are chosen. These latter compete to determine the winners in the respective years. School finals are then held to select the Aquinas Representative in the Bishop's Oratoricals.

ST. GENESIUS CLUB

There is no better place to instill into a youth's mind the effects of good entertainment than at a Catholic school. The "St. Genesius Club," our dramatics club at Aquinas, must be congratulated for their splendid work in doing this task.

The members of the club take very seriously their part in providing entertainment for the students. Long hours of rehearsing go into every one of their performances. These hours of practice are never in vain though, because a professional-type performance teaches the members to work together and gives them an appreciation of good clean entertainment.

With this in mind, it is obvious that the members of the St. Genesius Club along with their directors, Father Cullen and Father Whitley, deserve a great deal of credit for their part in the cultural training of Aquinas students.

Since we live in a great social world where man is so dependent upon his neighbor, it is very important that we learn how to associate with others. Merely attending class does not develop this ability in man. For this reason, social activities are so important to a student.

Although the student has the idea these activities are only for recreation, further consideration will show each one represents a "new experience." It is meeting and conquering these "new experiences" that develop this ability of learning how to associate with others.

Our school has realized the importance of these social activities and thus during the year holds many, such as dances, games and parties. Each student should support these activities because they are greatly beneficial for him.

ATHLETICS

The sports' program at Aquinas begins in September and continues throughout the year, ending only as the other school activities end, in June. Its teams, as shown in succeeding pages, participate in football, basketball, track, baseball and swimming. In the school's intramural program also depicted here, its activities literally attract the participation of every Aquinas student.

How successful was THE 1957-58 season? Well we can quote some statistics as a measure of a fraction of what was accomplished.

For example we can note that this year's Little Irish ran up a total of 1068 points for 17 games; that they turned in an 11-6 record; that they won nine straight before suffering their first loss of the season.

Future teams will score more or less points, so mere statistics are cold evidence of accomplishment. The real basis of a successful team is whether the players have become better Christian young men because of their associations with one another and those responsible for their development. And so, only the future will disclose the success or failure of the Aquinas basketball team of 1957-58.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

At Aquinas we believe in football as an important part of the school educational program. Football practices and games bring new experiences to young athletes.

Participation in the sound football program at Aquinas provides the teaching of cooperation and competition. Playing hard and playing to win can help build character. Learning to give and to take, experiencing defeat without grumbling, and accepting victory without gloating, makes the boy a better athlete. Good sportsmanship comes when rules are obeyed.

On the football field athletic competition can be a wholesome equalizer. Individuals on the playing field are judged by what they can do. We believe that football teaches the values of the democratic process and of fair play. We believe that football aids in teaching goodness, discipline and knowledge.

MISSION BOUTS

Before 4,473 spectators in the War Memorial on Saturday evening, March 29th, Aquinas' 24 boxers battled it out. At stake were the various championships, in addition to special awards.

However, the boys were not fighting merely for personal glory, but to swell the 1957-58 contribution to the Missions by many thousands of dollars.

In the course of the evening the boxers trained by Mr. "Hunk" Vadas provided the fans with such outstanding events as the match between Joe Camillaci and Tom Enright, who was fighting his third Mission Bout. The bout between Camillaci, the winner, and Enright was judged to be the "Best Fight of the Night" and the boys received the Abe Raff Trophy, which was awarded for the first time.

As a result of the decision over Bob Hogan, Dick Telarico was selected as the "Best Boxer of the Night." Dick was awarded the Hickok Trophy.

The other boxers are to be congratulated for their part in a most successful Card.
